TRANSPORTATION REGULATORY EXEMPTION APPLICATION/VARIANCE

The California Code of Regulations, title 22, division 4.5, chapter 13, article 4 (article 4) establishes four categories of transportation variances. Each variance category corresponds to a specific type of hazardous waste transportation operation, which, if conducted in accordance with the provisions of article 4, poses an insignificant risk to human health or to the environment. When signed in Part E by an authorized representative of the Department of Toxic Substances Control (DTSC) this document becomes the issued variance as applied for. Prior to operating pursuant to this variance, a transporter shall send a copy of this variance to each hazardous waste generator serviced under its provisions. Complete Part A through D as indicated.

PART B. SPECIFIC VARIANCE EXEMPTION(S) REQUESTED: Check the box next to the Transportation Regulatory Exemption(s) you are requesting. For each variance exemption category requested, list and describe each hazardous waste, provide the Department of Transportation shipping description or the generic or commonly used industrial name, and the estimated frequency and quantity transported per month. Use a separate page if necessary. A summary of each variance exemption category is provided below as guidance only. The actual regulations should be consulted prior to making any decision that may impact regulatory compliance.

Emergency Response Incident Operations, California Code of Regulations, title 22, section 66263.43. Allows a State, local or county governmental emergency response incident unit to transport up to five 85-gallon drums of hazardous waste from an incident site to a central collection facility using a shipping paper instead of a hazardous waste manifest. The waste may be accumulated for up to 90 days, and must then be manifested to an authorized facility.

PCB Waste Operations, California Code of Regulations, title 22, section 66263.44. Allows a governmental agency or public utility to transport its own polychlorinated biphenyl (PCB) waste to a central collection facility using a shipping paper instead of a hazardous waste manifest. Handling and storage time for the waste shall meet the provisions of California Code of Regulations, title 22, section 66263.18, and must then be manifested to an authorized facility.

Consolidation Operations, California Code of Regulations, title 22, section 66263.45. Allows a transporter who owns/operates multiple small, RCRA-exempt generation sites to transport up to 100 kilograms of hazardous waste per load from those sites to a temporary hazardous waste storage facility using a shipping paper instead of a hazardous waste manifest. Handling and storage time for the waste shall meet the provisions of California Code of Regulations, title 22, section 66263.18, and must then be manifested to an authorized facility.

Small Load Operations, California Code of Regulations, title 22, section 66263.46. Allows a transporter to transport up to 100 kilograms of RCRA-exempt hazardous waste per load, and no greater than 1000 kilograms per calendar month, directly to an authorized facility using a shipping paper instead of a hazardous waste manifest. Handling and storage time for the waste shall meet the provisions of California Code of Regulations, title 22, section 66263.18.

PART C. ADDRESS OF CENTRAL COLLECTION FACILITY OR TEMPORARY HAZARDOUS WASTE FACILITY

PART D. CERTIFICATION OF APPLICANT

I, the undersigned have read, understood and will comply with the provisions of the California Code of Regulations, title 22, division 4.5, chapter 13, article 4. I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of California that the information and statements provided in this application are true and correct to the best of my knowledge. I understand that there are significant penalties, including monetary fines and imprisonment, for knowingly submitting false information. I understand that I am obligated to immediately notify DTSC of any noncompliance with the terms of this variance. I understand that I am not exempted from any requirement of law except as specified above, and that the exemption(s) granted by this variance is/are not transferable to another party.
